Heathrow beginnings

Heathrow began as nothing more than a small airfield in 1930, but grew into a much larger airport after the Second World War.

On 25th March 1946 it opened as London Airport and in the early days the terminal was not much more than a row of tents and telephone boxes. But it soon began to grow to become the world-class airport it is today.

It was renamed Heathrow Airport in 1966.
